Prologue

Encounter, challenge, enrichment, commitment—these are the core words from which evolves the truly educated person. When these are placed within the framework of a sound theological and philosophical discipline the result is the flowering of a Christian perspective, the maturing of a well-rounded personality.

Encounter marks the freshmen world of discovery and experimentation not only in the academic sphere but even more so in the adjustment to campus life and upperclassmen. The sophomore measures the highway ahead and chooses sometimes "the road less traveled by." In any case there is deliberation, a certain wariness and, of course, wisdom. Enrichment is the key to the position of the college junior, absorption in the field of concentration, analysis, comparison, depth—these are the hallmarks of the third year student. Social activity, relationships with faculty and with each other share in the progression toward excellence. The senior stands at the beginning of a commitment to life. Time past, time present, time future blend in the quintessence of achievement which is paradoxically to be tested beyond these gates. The encounter, the challenge, the enrichment, the commitment are ever present in ever varying degrees.

This book celebrates one facet of these attributes, a segment of life set within the boundaries of college years—college years in our Modern era. College years, yes, but years spent at Salve Regina. The Regina Maris of 1965 endeavors to present to all its readers student life at this college by the sea. With pride we show you our campus, our administration and faculty and ourselves. It is a picture book but also a book which depicts more than what meets the eye-sight and insight, the one encompasses the other. You will find here dedication, loyalty, friendliness, and diligence. You will share in the encounter, the challenge, the enrichment, the commitment. So come, come within our gates.

Dedication

In our college years we are encouraged to develop a personal and practical responsibility in the accomplishment of our studies, in our social engagements and in the management of campus affairs. This involves guidance, interest, understanding, firmness and patience on the part of the one whose task it is to integrate us as a class and to promote among us a respect for authority, for scholarship and for each other. Within the sphere of such an influence there develops a maturity of vision, a deepening appreciation of our debt to those who have made these college years possible and a gradual cognizance of the unified pattern that each day's events reveal in the light of our common human condition as college students.

From the unforgettable days of our first encounter as Freshmen through the challenge of Sophomore year to the enriching achievement we experienced as Juniors now as we look outward to our commitment as Seniors we find one who has followed through for four years in her devotedness and in her loyalty to us as class moderator. It is in recognition of such service to us in all our needs and in all our vicissitudes that we dedicate the Regina Maris of 1965 to Sister Mary Wilhelmina.

Our Spiritual Leaders

THE MOST REVEREND
RUSSELL J. McVINNEY, D.D.

Grant to him, O Lord, the ministry of reconciliation in word and deed. Let his speech and his preaching be not in the persuasive words of human wisdom but in the showing of the spirit and of power. (Roman Pontifical)

THE MOST REVEREND
BERNARD M. KELLY, D.D.

Fill up in Thy priest the perfection of the ministry. Be his authority, his power, and his strength. Multiply on him Thy blessing and Thy grace so that by Thy gift he may be fitted ever to obtain Thy Mercy. (Roman Pontifical)

We wonder if our words will fittingly pay tribute to you. We who encounter you day by day; we students sitting before you row by row from nine to five. Your lives are given in the daily round of lectures, notes, books, examinations, problems, labs and meetings with each other for our sake. Angelus, McAuley, Ochre, Mercy echo with your words. We traverse the highways and byways of campus with you mindful of your bag of books and your friendly greeting. We are conscious of your endeavor to put into fifty minutes an organized segment of knowledge. We recognize the effort you make to help us, to unify, to integrate and to realize the continuity of the subject matter. We find on the other side of the desk or in the council room of the administration interest, solicitude and dedication.

We share with you a justifiable pride in the beauty and culture of our college locale. We rejoice with you in the expansion of Salve Regina. We are happy to be with you in this era of its history. Most of all we look upon you as being for us more than beauty of cornice or staircase. We find in you cordiality, understanding and patience. You are the living cornerstones of our college family. It is from you we experience the encounter with learning, the challenge, the enrichment and the commitment to our ideals.

Faculty

Mother M. Helena at Honors Convocation with Mrs. Kieran Farrelly has the Regina Medal in readiness.

Sister Mary Hilda, president emerita, gives of her time and energy to the many problems facing a growing college.

Lead the Way

Checking through folders for applicants' records is a daily task for Sister Mary Audrey. As dean of admissions, she holds the key to the future of Salve.

Some of the endless details of plans for Miley Hall! Sister Mary Petronilla pleasantly faces her numerous tasks.

Sister Mary Venard in a very natural setting—at her desk in the Business Office, where she is never too busy to attend to interests of faculty and students alike.

Theology and natural science find a place in Sister Mary Olga's schedule. Here a group of freshmen come to grips with material pertinent to semester exams.

Along the Highroad of Learning

Who better than the Theology Department to find significant meaning in the Advent Wreath? Sister Mary Eloise and Sister Mary Columille seems to be enjoying their investigation.

The Student Council Tea in honor of the faculty was an occasion for informal chatter. Ellen Anderson and Michele Laliberte share a pleasantry with Sister Mary Martina.

A comfortable chair, a magazine, a few moments of leisure. Beware, Sister Mary Antonine, the camera's roving eye is upon you.

Mr. Jack Stodghill seems ready for action—or is he timing his more relaxed colleagues, Mr. Leo Bottari, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lautieri?

Toward Certain Goals

Pause along the way when Mr. Nunes is in the offing and click Sister Mary Othilda finds herself signed and sealed for Regina Maris.

A book in the hand is worth two in the book box! Sister Mary Christopher seems most happy in her find.

Jackalyn Killeen, Mary Jane Pearson and Judy Brissette, sociology majors socialize with their teacher, Mr. Miles Santamore.

Mr. Heriberto Vasquez and Mr. Manuel Nunez de Cela enter into the Christmas spirit with the French students.

Looks as if the Modern Language Department is on the threshold of great undertakings with Sister Mary Nolasco and Sister Mary Ignatius ready for anything.

With Sincere Desire

Come, Sister Mary Jean, let us in on the secret gleaned from your Harvard research!

English composition on Wednesdays at three finds Miss Mary Ann McCarthy ready for business at the lectern in Room 12.

America always has a thought for Sister Mary Mauritia. This time the Regina Maris Staff has a thought—the subject is good, the pose is good—so here goes.

If you should chance to meet Mr. Kilmer along the way, he will be ready for a discussion of e.e. cummings.

The Alliance Francaise finds a devoted moderator in Madame Georgette Ramos. Christmas and Epiphany are especially noteworthy for club members.

For Our Success

The education curriculum will be well-coordinated after this discussion between Sister Mary Janice and Mrs. Eleanor MacMahon.

Mr. George McKim enters wholeheartedly into whatever subject is under discussion!

Encouraging

With musical score in hand Sister Mary Rosina is ready to call the Glee Club to order for their Thursday evening rehearsal.

Miss Joan David, Peter Bowes, his sister Patricia, and Deborah Nunes are certainly intent on Carol Battaglia's interpretation of the script for THE SOUND OF MUSIC.

Creative Writing—the world of words has its own fascination for Miss Mary Zavada as she endeavors to fashion would-be writers in her class.

This is a different pose for Miss Jane Hale who is usually pictured on the gym floor. However, she is able to grace any occasion, be it a tea or a basketball game.

This isn't the general business office where Sister Mary Corona spends so many hours. Rather the great outdoors has a call even on an icy day in December.

In Arts and Sciences

Connie Tobin admires the seasonal centerpiece so artistically arranged by Sister Mary Martha, who here adds one more touch to a work at which she is adept.

Mrs. Marguerite Murphy shares some ideas on physical education over a bit of coffee with Mary-Regina Lazzari.

Office work is never done. Records seem to multiply and Sister Mary Augustine finds her growing department demanding more and more attention.

Miss Lucille Sullivan assumes a dramatic pose at the rostrum—a pose certainly "not expected" in the world of science.

From the scientific to the cultural! Miss Sharon Hirst admires a vase in a nook in Ochre Court!

Pay attention, Pat Kolarsick! Sister Mariella has significant facts to point out to you.

Along the way, Miss Helen Maloof gathers information from America just as the Year Book photographers appear on the scene.

Miss Margaret Krikorian is on campus Mondays and Fridays. She is busy in Room 12, Angelus —this time erasing a few notations.

Textbooks are necessary tools for all of us. Mrs. Catherine Graziano finds commentary on psychology and the nurse.

And Gladly Teach

Our psychiatric nursing instructor, Sister Marilyn, enjoys tea, cake, and conversation with Gail Boche-neck and Patty Duch.

Mother Mary Helena, Mother Provincial, presents Sister Mary Hilda with an award symbolic of her untiring service to Salve Regina since its opening in 1947.

Worthy of Tribute

Mr. George L. McKim, retiring Professor of Education, accepts a testimonial gift from Sister Mary Emily at a reception given by the faculty in his honor.

"Family Day" presentation—Mrs. William Nagle (Geraldine Barry), proudly introduces her children to Sister Mary Hilda.

A Memorable Occasion

Reverend Paul C. Curran, O.P., blesses the cornerstone while Mr. James Maguire, College Construction Superintendent, holds the metal container of historic and significant data to be placed inside the cornerstone.

Miley Hall in January, 1965, is a far cry from Miley Hall in May, 1964. Pictures really do tell a story.

Cornelius Moore, Esquire, is happy to grace this occasion of the laying of the cornerstone with a few cordial words of good will.

Fathers' Council

Mr. James Dillon and daughter Kathleen chat with Sister Mary Rosalia. For them the Father-Daughter Weekend holds enjoyable memories as well as eager anticipation.

Mr. Earle Mullare, newly-elected president of the Fathers' Council, has all the earmarks of his office-desk, telephone, correspondence.

Mothers' Guild

Mrs. George Thomas Cullen, President, checks details for one of the numerous Salve Regina Guild projects.

The Regina Medal for 1964 is presented to Mrs. Kieran Farrelly by Mother Mary Helena. Mrs. Farrelly has long been actively interested in College affairs, especially as a loyal and hard-working member of the Mothers' Guild.

This idea of accepting responsibility and of sharing it is part and parcel of our Christian heritage. It is an integral element in the formation of the 20th century woman. To share the responsibility of governing Salve Regina is the duty of the Student Government. This council is composed of students elected by the student body. It is the voice of the students, the means whereby student problems may be debated, and resolved. Each of the Student Council officers has accepted a serious responsibility. Each is concerned with the common good. This demands courage, deliberation, discipline and sacrifice.

This little world of government, this miniature parliament measures and weighs the policies and the injunctions of school law. This council sets the pace, creates the atmosphere, infiltrates its own spirit within the ranks of underclassmen. It is judicial without being offensive, it is friendly without loss of dignity, it respects each student and is in turn respected.

The Council has done much to foster good will. Some of its members helped in the revision of the handbook last year. All of its members this year are concerned with the actual day by day functioning of these revisions.

Student Government

Student Council

Say, "When." Oh! How many sugars will that be. Ann, Reggie, and Frances?

The Tea enables the students and faculty to socialize in a formal but most congenial atmosphere.

Sister Mary Emily addresses the student body at their first assembly during orientation week. Her message is one of welcome and of stimulation toward the intellectual.

House Council

Home away from home.

Social Committee

"Friday then, with fifty friends" signs off social Jackie, the Committee's Chairman.

With fond memories of a wonderful week-end Patricia McCarten starts the long climb to the third floor.

Freshmen in a tour of Ochre Court pause to admire the portrait of Robert Goelet, Esquire. A long-time friend of Salve Regina he is interested in its expansion and growth.

Each day for almost two months, the freshmen donned their beanies. Jean helps Beverly adjust her beanie while Bonnie fills out her name tag, another distinctive mark of the freshmen.

"I must go down to the sea again" . . . and study! A warm wind and a fresh salt breeze combine to serve Sylvia, Janice, and Rosemary as they pore over their notes.

Encounter Each Other

"It's not really that bad!" murmur Alberta and Duane. Marilyn and Lydia bring up the rear of Queen Hall's four sole freshmen inhabitants among the seniors.

Pat Sullivan bids a last farewell to Ochre Court—good old Ochre.

The last trek down the stairs as dorm students: Janellen, Mary Minahan, Margaret, Marjorie, Eileen, and Mary McNulty.

Make Ready for Change

Strains of music fill the air around the tennis court and activity halts as some of the freshmen take time out for a serenade by Lyn Munson.

A royal court meets while Mary McNulty bears a freshman beanie on a "velvet" cushion.

A chock-full bookstore will supply Jane Ellen with anything a college career calls for.

Mercy Hall entertains, beguiles, and at the same time gently satirizes sophs under the guise of orchestration and the sound of music.

. . . Gain Confidence

"On the waterfront" with Jane, Susie, Dee, Cindy, Judy and Chris who are seeing Newport the cold way.

and Become One of Us

Concentration plus—Sophomores are hard at work in the periodical room. Research is in the air here. Reading, writing, re-writing and then some more. The sophs are preparing themselves for the many future hours of study ahead.

Miss Ann Murphy receives her nurse's cap from Monsignor Greene during the annual September Honors Convocation.

Pioneers On the New Frontier

"I forgot my assignment!" Paula realizes as Adrian, Anne, and Beverly patiently wait on the steps of Shady Lawn.

Rev. John Dittoe, O.P., blesses Founders Hall one autumn day.

Founders Hall on Ruggles Avenue is a new acquisition this year. Some chosen souls among the Sophs find there "a local habitation and a name." They cherish the distinction of being first in Founders.

◀ "Now, how do you fold this corner?" muse the puzzled Judy and Kathy, as they attempt to straighten out their new room at Shady Lawn. Paula and Mary Lou provide an amused audience.

Gain in Status

Comes a moment in the freshman performance when sophs must stop, look, listen, and learn.

A Magic Moment in November

Between dances our social sophs take that "pause that refreshes." The great Hall staircase provides the perfect setting.

Three pretty maids trip lightly down the Great Staircase to meet their dates. Music calls, the November Nocturne is a reality.

The magic of an autumn moon on the sea enhances the November Nocturne, a traditional Sophomore event. The warmth and gaiety of the dance within Ochre Court blends with the moonlit beauty without.

Juniors . . .

During their Monday and Friday classes our Junior nurses seem to enjoy this brief exposure to campus life. Just another semester and they will return to campus.

Enrichment the Hard Way

Reports due, reports due, and more reports due—all part of the work-a-day life of a Junior.

Sue and Evelyn entangle some technical problems as Elizabeth and Susan tend to the more aesthetic side of preparing for the Big Day.

Jane, Pauline, and Miriam take a peek at the nearly-finished Miley soon to be home away from home.

Enjoyment the Junior Way

Moving to Miley is imminent but yet no one may enter its portals. Eager and curious Juniors venture into the vestibule.

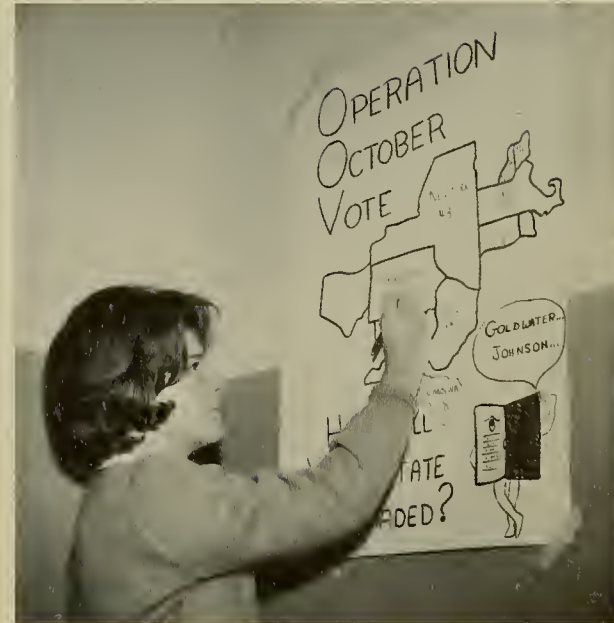

Picture schedule must be followed though the day be cold and Juniors try to smile at the behest of Mr. Nunes.

"That should be an excellent choice," enthuses Marie as Elaine seems to ponder her choice of a new book.

Diversity in all Ways

Coffee! Hot Coffee! For sale—Junior hot coffee under special management in a special corner of McAuley Hall.

The Administration, the faculty, the Student Council, each finds in the other a mutual goal — the welfare and the happiness of each student from the lowly Freshman to the dignified Senior.

College clubs are necessary. They lie beyond the boundaries of the classroom and yet are the by-product of the formal academic session. In this social atmosphere cultural aspects of the curriculum are enhanced. There is an enthusiasm created for the customs, language, and ideas of foreign countries. Music and art appeal to the creative sensibilities, sports increase physical vigor and give training in mental alertness; the sciences and current history lend themselves to informal discussion. Literature has its own domain of criticism and interpretation. Philosophical and theological implications are always challenging. The specifically religious clubs are the outgrowth of attitudes and the business of living. The domestic sphere expresses its ideals in enumerable ways in the design toward gracious living. Dramatics is geared toward self-expression.

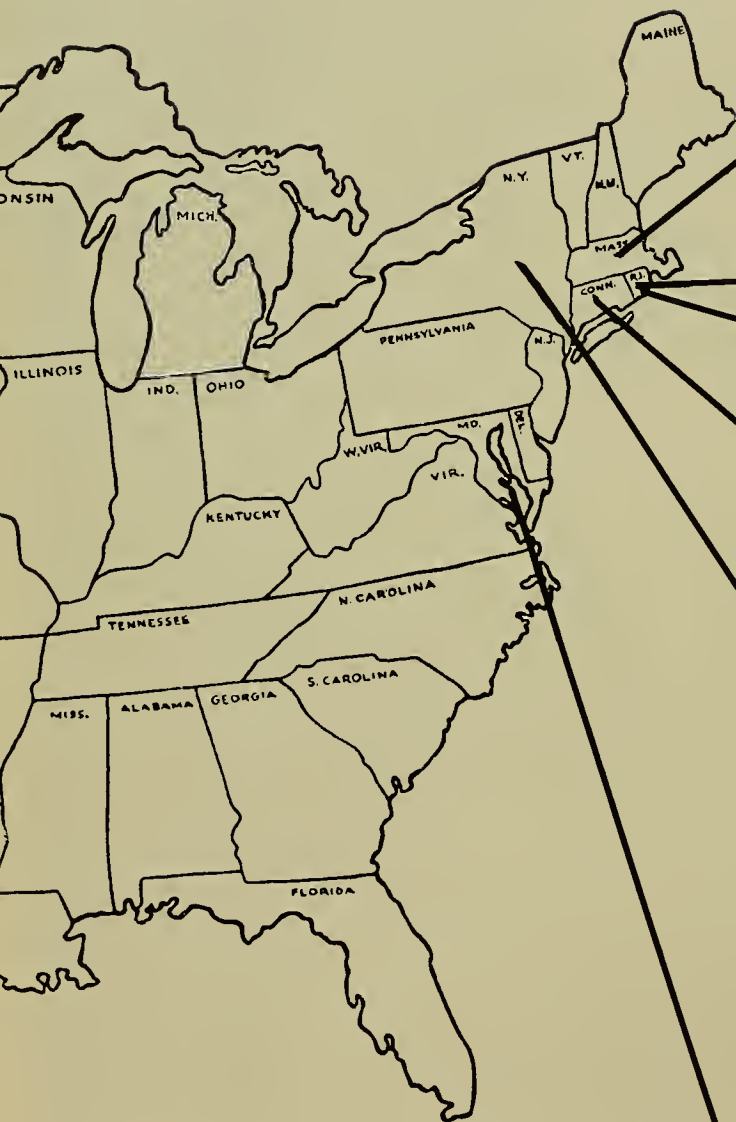

It is a pleasure each year at Salve Regina to attend the annual December art exhibit. The varied concerts by the Queen's choristers hold a major place on the school calendar. The Regina Players offer a diversified program ranging from Tidings to The Sound of Music. The Home Economics club always prepares an attractive agenda. Campus Critique holds an honored place. We really look forward to the W.R.A. games. Maria Regina Sodality and C.C.D. offer still another level of activity. The language clubs, commuters' and the newly-formed Biology Clubs are added attractions for interested students.

"Happiness is a Salve dance." Here is another successful festivity.

"I could have danced all night" becomes more than a song to the Juniors—an evening to remember in the fairylike setting of the Great Hall.

Traditional Moments

The big day finally arrives for the Juniors after three years of waiting for their Star Sapphire. Here, Mary Ellen Bessette takes the big step through the giant replica of the college ring; now she is an "official" upperclassman.

Here are the odd moments that somehow in their very diversity are special—the moments in between that suggest almost anything — comradeship, fun, social engagement, a game of cards, a class meeting, or casting a vote for the president of the United States or what you will.

Yet are these moments as odd as they appear? Are they the moments that do not fit into any classification? Are they interludes of no significance? They are the moments that catch the human touch, the feminine concern for each succeeding event and each fleeting encounter. They are the moments which give color, warmth, and enthusiasm — a kind of counterpoint to the rhythm of study and the more serious concerns of college life. Along the way a chance meeting, a friendly chat, a jam session or a fall weekend do much to mold attitudes, encourage leadership and develop womanliness. The Haven, Shamrock Cliff, Newport Creamery, Ten Mile Drive, downtown Newport — these tell the story of four years. These are the memories which remain and recall Salve Regina and the class of 1965.

These odd moments strange as it may appear have a share in the educating process and in the formation of the Christian woman. Perhaps it is in these seemingly trivial moments the feminine character is more severely tested and more deeply enriched. On parade or in the off beat casual meeting in the course of a day a woman reveals herself for what she is.

Senior Odd Moments

Now and Again

Exams are nerve-wracking but wonderful to have over with! The Seniors agree but realize what's ahead: comps, thesis, etc. Is there no end to it?

The Political Science class sponsored a mock election in conjunction with the presidential election of 1964. Each student's vote was placed in a box labeled with the name of her home state. Results? . . . L.B.J. by a landslide!

The Candle Light Ceremony, a highlight of Christmas Tide at Salve Regina finds the Senior Class leading the rest of the Student Body in the procession to the Crib and in the singing of carols.

Here and There

A good time seemed to be had by all who attended the Fall Weekend at the Shamrock Cliff.

Almost Anything

"Here's to you" our favorite dates. A glimpse of the "Senior Dads" enjoying dinner at Salve's annual Father-Daughter Weekend.

The thrill of a lifetime—another first and a national election, too. Flossie is most enthusiastic. Perhaps here is a politician in the making.

It must be of grave import, Sister. Sue has to close her eyes to think it through while Ellen Roney ventures a solution.

The pursuit of knowledge, the quest for wisdom, the desire for excellence—these are qualities for College students everywhere. When we take these same attributes and apply them to the feminine character we are somehow changing the perspective, deepening the insights and demanding an emphasis which only a woman can give.

Salve Regina places confidence in you, her 1965 graduates. Within this growing campus there is concrete evidence of much in the realm of material expansion. All the while quietly and almost in secret you have matured in the ways of knowledge, in the experience of the intellectual, in the encounter with yourself as a woman.

You are not only a Catholic College graduate but you have the distinctive mark of this college upon you. It is here during the course of four years that you have become "a part of all that you have met." It is here along these cliffs and within the sound of the sea that you have lived and studied. It is here within this atmosphere of the spiritual and the cultural, within this college family that your hours and days have been spent. A thousand days of encounter, of challenge, of enrichment and of commitment.

Your commitment lies beyond these gates to a world who needs in all spheres of life the dedication, the power, and the influence of the Christian woman.

A Sunday in June—afternoon Mass—solemn ritual—emotions run high for graduates, parents, and friends.

Commencement

Historic Saint Mary's is the scene for the Baccalaureate Mass. The Seniors are justly proud of the privilege of using this beautiful setting.

Within Saint Mary's the Mass progresses. The solemnity of the High Mass has its own message for the Seniors.

Epilogue

In these moments of farewell "time present and time past are both present in time future." All our days meet in this one point—commencement. Here beside the restless waters within the circling gannets' cry; here where the salt brine is on the wild rose bordering the cliff and the sundial high on the grey chimney measures the fleeting hours; here is the pattern of timeless moments.

Here is the instant of illumination in this moment of valediction, in itself a beacon light into time future. Here is a lifetime poised within an hour. This is the life which merges into a life of action, of action comprehended and sustained by the years of study.

Fare well and fare forward to that moment beyond the shadow of the sundial, beyond the voice of many waters where thought and action find fulfillment, where hope and desire are transcended—where all things and all manner of things are eternal.
